Pablo's Tapas

Manzanilla 4.5 6 20

Manzanilla sherry is known for its light, delicate flavour and is often enjoyed as an aperitif

Oloroso 5 6.5 27

Oloroso is dark in colour with a rich, nutty flavour and is often enjoyed as a dessert wine

Alvear Cream 5 6.5 27

Aromas of dried fruits such as figs and raisins intermingle with honey. The palate is decadent and smooth with a nutty aftertaste and a long, long finish.

Pedro Ximenez 6.5 8 32

PX sherry is syrupy in texture and dark in colour, known for its rich, sweet flavour often enjoyed as a dessert wine.

Spanish Sherries

Spanish sherries are a type of fortified wine that originated in the Jerez region of Spain. They are made from white grapes and are aged in a system called solera, which involves blending wines of different ages. Spanish sherries come in a range of styles and flavours, from light and dry to rich and sweet. Sherries are often enjoyed as an aperitif or with dessert.

Vermouth

Spanish vermouth is a fortified wine that originated in Spain and is flavoured with herbs and spices. It is typically made from white or red wine, and is often used in cocktails. Spanish vermouth is either sweet or dry, with the sweet variety being more commonly used in cocktails.

Zarro Rojo 5 6.5 20

Ochre colour with orange tones. On the nose, wide and intense aromas of herbs. In the mouth it is meaty, broad, with an explosion of flavours, leaving a long and persistent finish.

Zarro Blanco 5 6.5 20

Soft yellow colour, with intense and complex aromas of citrus peels, cinnamon and vanilla. In the mouth it is round and fresh, with a long finish reminiscent of spicy notes.

Alvear Rojo Tradicional 6 8 31

Aromas of dried fruits such as figs and raisins intermingle with honey. The palate is decadent and smooth with a nutty aftertaste and a long, long finish.

La Cuesta Reserva 6.5 8.5 34

This Vermouth is very aromatic and flavoursome. Roasted aromas of mountain herbs, oak and coffee stand out on the nose. The palate is bitter, with hints of ripe fruit and spices.
